

A Weak Heart!

The work done by the medical profession of America is vast and valuable. Few physicians are able to cover the entire field of practice, but select special departments in which to become proficient. It was left to independent discovery to produce a remedy especially for the nervous system and diseases of the heart, and so efficient has this discovery proved, that in the past this remedy is acknowledged by the medical profession to be a sovereign remedy for these troubles. It is needless to say this remedy is

Dr. Swan's Nerve and Blood Tonic.

"TWO BITES OF A CHERRY."

What to do with the cherries is hardly a problem, it is true; especially if one is a member of the association and quite willing to eat them. But for those who are eager to vie with the robins in selecting each coveted prize the moment one stamp check turns red. Certainly no one who has been a member of the association, accompanied only by his glossy, spirally serrate leaves. It seems almost a pity to lose the natural beauty and fragrance of the cherry. But, if one has the same time, a little variety is often preferable; or perhaps one's fruit is not quite ripe, or is otherwise best suited for some other use. In such cases, if possible, the following recipes will be found useful, and only an ungrateful pal would fail to do them justice.

CHERRY SNOW.—Beat four eggs very light; to the yolk add half a cup of flour, wet with cold milk, a pinch salt, one-half teaspoonful of baking powder and a pint of hot milk; lastly add the beaten whites. Have ready in a buttered pudding dish a half-pint of sweet cherries, sprinkled with sugar. Pour the batter over them and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. When as it is done, or it will fall.

CHERRY CHARLOTTE.—Cut in narrow strips a few slices of thin sponge cake, and arrange these around the sides of a deep glass dish. Stone a quart of fine, ripe cherries, and sprinkle lightly with sugar, unless very sweet. Pour these, with sugar and all, over the sponge cake, and bake in a hot oven for half an hour; if sweeten to taste, color about half with red cherry juice, and pile it on top on the cherries. Let it remain in the oven until the mixture is of service. This is a fine fruit cake, and makes a well-remembered addition to our summer bills of fare.

RECIPES.

CRYSTALLIZED ORANGE PEEL.—Put orange peel in cold water and set it away

It must be kept while it is cooking in a cold place, but not where it will freeze. When it has been thoroughly cooked, boil it till it is tender, drain it and wash it with cold water. Then make it into long strips of uniform size. Make a thick sirup, in the proportion of one pint of sugar to a pint of water. When the sirup has boiled ten minutes put the strips in it. When the strips are in it still it begins to shrivel and the sirup is reduced to a rather soft candy. This may be ascertained by testing the sirup. When the strips are in the sirup, when the fingers it has cooked enough, peel the peel out, spread it on greased papers, taking care that the strips do not touch. Then dry them in a warm oven. The strips may then be thoroughly dried, make them into little sheaves, trying them around the centre with a narrow ribbon of white paper or pale orange color. They look like little sheaves of wheat.

the kidneys. Take care to eat plenty of water. If an inch square, being careful to eat all the hard and tough bits inside kidney. Put them in a closely covered saucepan with plenty of cold water and boil for 1½ hours. Drain and wash with water and put in fresh and boil again. Change the water once more and then let them simmer on the back of the stove for 1½ hours. Drain and pour before serving add one onion chopped very finely, some parsley, a few drops of lemon juice and a dash of salt. Another dressing of some finely chopped mushrooms, also chopped finely, a dash of salt and a dash of lemon juice, a dash of cayenne an improvement to the taste of people who like highly-seasoned food. Just before they are served chicken with one teaspoonful of lemon juice and a dash of salt. Simmer on boil up to cook the flour, and send to the table at once. If wanted for breakfast they can be cooked the day before and reheated.

SALTED ALMONDS.—To salt a cupful shelled almonds, pour boiling water over them, and when they have rested a moment drain it off and rub the skin off with a cloth. Then wash the almonds on a pan for five minutes in the oven to dry. Put a teaspoonful of pure olive oil over them, salt over so that they are thoroughly covered, and then roast in the oven. Salt over them and toss the almonds again in this. Let them rest in a cup in an hour. At the end of this time take them out on a platter, wash them in water and let them remain for five or ten minutes, or until they are turned an golden brown. Stir them occasionally while browning. They must be eaten very delicately indeed. Put them on the table at the beginning of dinner, with the olives and pickles.

CHERRY RICE PUDDING.—Boil one quart of a pound of rice until tender in water, and then press through a sieve into a well-greased border mold while hot. Let it stand until perfectly cold. Drain a can of peaches from their liquor and press through a sieve. Add to the rice one cup of sugar, and one cupful of cream whipped to a stiff froth. Turn the rice out on a dish and pour over it a sirup made of one cupful of sugar and one-half of a cupful of water, flavored with lemon juice. Put the peach mixture in the centre of the rice border and serve with or without the garnish of candied fruit or nuts.

SOPH OF GREEN CORN.—Into a saucepan put one cupful of corn, one cupful of chopped celery, two sliced potatoes, a small chopped onion, and two carrots sliced, and add two quarts atoes, and boil all for a half hour long when put in a half pint of green water pulp and let all boil up at once, to taste, and serve either thick or strained.

CRISP CORN BREAD.—One cupful of short corn, one cupful of white corn meal, whites of two eggs, one tablespoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cupful of boiled hominy or corn meal, and one cupful of milk. Mix the meal with about one cupful of milk, add the sugar, then add the hominy, salt, k, etc., and take one tablespoonful of melted butter. Bake in a pudding dish.

For a making crust of any kind do not mix it in the flour. Melting will be the best.

TITLE OF RIVOLI.

PERSON SAID THAT HIS LIFE REALLY BEGAN THERE.

... Campaign Was the Turning of the War and Shaped the History of Europe For Twenty Years—The Battle Five Minutes Later.

... Professor Sliane "a Life of Napoleon" ...

... describes the masterly campaign, in which Napoleon's genius first won worldwide attention. Professor Sliane thus details the battle of Rivoli:

... dawned upon the conflict was to settle the fate of Mantua. ... the French right wing on the left and the French right on the left but it quickly spread along the line as far as Capriano. For the Austrians had the advantage the result was in suspense. ... French left, at Capriano, instantly before the onslaught of the Austrian army made in accordance with Alvinczy's first plan, as he supposed, upon an inferior force vastly superior in numbers. ... the French campaign was the high point in his commander's with a judgment which has really linked his name with that of the great conqueror. He had not, fully restored order to the ranks. Every successive attack of the Austrians was met with valor, but the right wing had to be sent back toward Monte Baldo in a hasty confusion.

Little battle was for nearly three before Alvinczy understood that not Jombert's division, but Bonaparte's, which was above him. In the then pressed to retreat, he was forced to the height to bring his troops into action, and Jombert rashly advanced to check movement, leaving the road to St. unprotected. The Austrians, to take advantage of his blunder, to up the hill, and seized the commanding position, but simultaneously sent a detachment to the opposite side of the hill, where they opened three battalions, clambering up to reand nervous activity brought first to the top, and again brought columns were thrown back in order. At that instant appeared in Bonaré an Austrian corps estimated at 4,000 strong, which, having taken down the valley, cut off the left bank. It crossed the river to take the right at Rivoli in its rear. Had arrived but a minute sooner the Rivoli would have been lost to France. As it was, instead of making a move, they had to make a retreat, directing their falling artillery against them, and thus gained time to reform his ranks and hold the place in check until his own reinforcements coming in from the next hamlet cut them entirely off from the
